THINK OF AN ELEPHANT

When scientists were asked to think of an elephant being sucked into a black-hole in order to solve the ongoing problem of where its matter would go, they made the ground-breaking discovery that its fate would differ depending on the position you were watching from. Now Paul Bailey shows that by taking a different view of the universe and your place in it you can experience so much more than you originally thought possible.

By linking the apparently unrelated fields of quantum physics, holistic health, cosmology, theology, neuroscience, evolutionary theory, and consciousness studies, Paul Bailey has discovered that each is a facet of a greater, unified reality – that science and mindset are two sides of the same coin. Once we come to this understanding of the true nature of the universe, we can see where we fit into it all, how we each affect everyone and everything around us—and how we can make a significant difference. This is the key to taking personal responsibility for change and ultimately to finding independent and lasting happiness and fulfilment.

Hi, Paul - your book has knocked me out.
If you're doing anything in the UK in the new year - anywhere in UK - I'd really like to be included.
Sincerely - Larry Parker

Hi Paul, There are so many things that I want to say. Firstly, your book chose me (no surprise hey?)...long story, but I am eternally grateful that it came to me, when it did. Secondly, I did not realise the momentum that you and your amazing writing was having when I purchased it. I have told all my friends about it and today I googled you, (for a couple of reasons) and WOW!! Congratulations on your success!!! Reading the first paragraph of your book to myself, as my husband was driving, I instantly had to re-read it out aloud to him. I have since done this exact thing for much of the book, stopping for great discussions along the way. Thank you for that alone. Beginning to read 'Think of an Elephant' a few months ago, has seen many breakthroughs in my ideas about the world we live in and my place in it. To get to my point, since buying your book, I have been diagnosed with non-hodgkins lymphoma and gone through 90% of my chemotherapy treatment. Your book has helped me during this time. I have had many spontaneous, creative thoughts come to me during the last 3 months, that I am acting on to make changes in my life and others. One of which is having a fundraising ball, auctioning off my husbands paintings, among other things, to raise money for the Gold Coast Hospital's Hematology and Oncology Unit, which I will be carbon off-setting. Your point of businesses taking responsibility for their carbon footprint is what motivated this idea. I suppose I would like to let you know that this will be happening early 2009 and I will be in contact closer to the date to formally invite you along as a guest, to enjoy a great evening celebrating life and community. There is another thing that has been on my mind since I read the first page, that I just have to ask. Would you consider sitting for my husband Dan to paint you for the 2009 Archibald Portraiture Prize? His website is danmasonartist.com. Check it out when you get a chance, he also has an upcoming exhibition at Red Hill Gallery, Brisbane from Sept 3rd, which he will soon have a link to from his site. I realise this is quite a long-winded email, I really just wanted to express some of the impact you are having on my life and that of my husbands. You are an inspiration and I thank you. Keep shining. Tanya.

Dear Paul

I've just finished reading "Think of an Elephant" and would like to express my appreciation of your work. I am in awe of the extent and thoroughness of your research, and you express so succinctly and clearly many, many things that I have known in my heart to be true for a very long time. I also particularly like the way your book is written without any form of prescriptive approach to spirituality, religion or philosophy.

This book has assumed first place amongst my library of "special and beloved" books to be turned to again and again, or gems of information as well as insight, and is shelved alongside treasured works of Deepak Chopra, Gregg Braden, Gary Zukav, Oriah Mountain Dreamer, Thomas Moore and many others.

Many thanks once again for producing a wonderful book.
Yours sincerely,
Jill Garsden

Having just finished reading the book, I think it's an important contribution to current spiritual thinking.
I am enthralled by the walk in the forest with the teenagers.
Thanks. Alan

Hi Paul
I'm am very inspired by your work and what you are seeking to do.
At the risk of sounding gauche what does one do
(bearing in mind I'm in Tasmania) to learn more from you?
Are you interested in others spreading the word?
Is there anything I can do for you?
No doubt you receive emails such as this regularly -I now too am a fan.
Kind regards
Louise

Hi Paul
I am writing to tell you how much I love your Elephant book.
I am half way through it, and relish every idea, and every sentence.
Once I get to the meditation exercises at the back of the book,

I feel that I would need guidance on these exercises.
I am interested in meditation and transformation.
As a teacher, I am aware that consistent practice, if even a few minutes each day is important in developing skills and achieving projects.
I would greatly appreciate it, if you could suggest which one of your programs would suit my present situation.

Kind regards
Margaret Choy

Dear Paul

I just wished to thank you for the book.
Have read a few snippets and am in awe –
quantum physics is a topic that I just can not get le head around at the moment
(the film "down the rabbit hole" was particularly perplexing !).
Thanks again for the book and writing about a very uniquely "out there" topic.
It is a "space" that most mere mortals are not in, nor do they evolve to that level of thinking in their lifetime.

With kindest regards
Victoria Rati

i have interest in the field viewing science and spirituality as brothers and sisters, ones who cannot live without each other. can you please send me emails related to this, so i can work on my thesis? sarthak parikh

Dear Paul,
Really thrilled to be publishing your book - one of the most amazing books I have published over the last 30 years if not the most amazing!
Many thanks
Best wishes
Michael
